

Fraser Fir
(Abies fraseri)

Firs are trees of superb form, with straight trunks and regular tiers of whorled branches.

Fraser Fir is a small to medium size tree, very tolerant to shade. Because of its thick green foliage, beautiful shape, fragrance, and needles that are retained unusually well, Fraser Fir makes an excellent Christmas tree.

It is also used widely as an ornamental yard tree and for watershed protection as they hold shallow soils to steep slopes.